

Investment focus

The success of the Adamant Healthcare Index led to the launch of an investment fund under Luxembourg law that is based on this index in 2016. The BB Adamant Healthcare Index (Lux) Fund tracks the performance of the Adamant Global Healthcare Index (total return). Given its operating costs, the Fund by definition cannot beat the Adamant Global Healthcare Index. Its objective is to outperform the MSCI World Healthcare Index. Foreign currency exposure is not hedged.

Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future results and can be misleading. As the subfund is denominated in a currency that may differ than an investor's base currency, changes in the rate of exchange may have an adverse effect on prices and incomes. Performance is shown net of fees and expenses for the relevant share class over the reference period. All performance figures reflect the reinvestment of dividends and do not take into account the commissions and costs incurred on the issue and redemption of shares, if any. Individual costs are not taken into account and would have a negative impact on the performance. With an investment amount of EUR 1,000 over an investment period of five years, the investment result in the first year would be reduced by the front-end load of up to EUR 50 (5%) as well as by additional individual custody charges. In subsequent years, the investment result would also be reduced by the individual custody account costs incurred. The reference benchmark of this class is used for performance comparison purposes only (dividend reinvested). No benchmark is directly identical to a sub-fund, thus the performance of a benchmark is not a reliable indicator of future performance of the sub-fund it is compared to. There can be no assurance that a return will be achieved or that a substantial loss of capital will not be incurred.

Any reference to a specific company or security does not constitute a recommendation to buy, sell, hold or directly invest in the company or securities. Market review

August was a difficult month for stock investors. The broad MSCI World equity index dropped 2.0% (in CHF). The healthcare sector in general fared a bit better – the MSCI World Healthcare Index ended the month back where it'd been at the start of the month – but the BB Adamant Healthcare Index Fund took a beating and shed 3.7% (I shares).

Investors became increasingly nervous in August and stock-market volatility rose as a result. A renewed escalation of the US-Sino trade war and a string of disappointing European macro data were to blame, among other factors. Recession worries were cited by central banks around the world as they relaxed their monetary policy or flagged a future easing.

Most of the companies in the portfolio that published half-year earnings announcements in August presented convincing results but in most cases this didn't lead to a strong mark-up in their share prices. On the other hand, the few portfolio companies that released disappointing news got hammered. Abiomed, the US manufacturer of the world's smallest heart pump, was the month's biggest loser after releasing financial results that fell short of expectations. Germany's Evotec announced satisfactory quarterly results but guided the market for somewhat slower growth in 2020 when Sanofi-Aventis payments cease. That caused this stock to nosedive too. Notre Dame, a managed care provider in Brazil, was a bright spot in the portfolio in August. Its good results for H1 2019, actually since its IPO in April 2018, were cheered by investors.

General description

The BB Adamant Healthcare Index Fund tracks the performance of the Adamant Global Healthcare Index. Every six months, in April and October, the 40 most attractive stocks in the global healthcare sector are selected for the index. The BB Adamant Healthcare team continuously screens about 600 of the world's 4000 listed healthcare companies based on eight criteria covering company management, product pipelines, operating risks and country-related risks. The index is the property of Bellevue Asset Management and it is independently calculated and published by Standard & Poor's on a daily basis. The Adamant Global Healthcare Index and the BB Adamant Healthcare Index Fund are equally divided into four regions, Western Europe, North America, Japan/Australia and Emerging Markets, and ten stocks are selected from each region. The region with the highest rating, usually North America, can never have an index weighting of more than 35%, so emerging markets figure more prominently in the index. Companies with high valuations and low growth rates will almost never be admitted to the index. Historical index data shows that mid cap stocks typically represent 60-80% of the index and the Asia region accounts for approximately one-third of the index. Furthermore, pharmaceutical stocks are clearly underweighted in comparison with the MSCI World Healthcare Index.

Risk and return profile

The Fund's investment objective is to generate attractive and competitive long-term capital growth. It is particularly suited to investors with an investment horizon of at least 5 years. The Fund is exposed to the risks typical of equity investments.

The calculation of the risk and earnings profile is based on simulated/historical data, which cannot be used as a reliable indication of the future risk profile. The classification of the fund may change in future and does not constitute a guarantee. Even a fund classed in category 1 does not constitute a completely risk-free investment. There can be no guarantee that a return will be achieved or that a substantial loss of capital will not be incurred. The overall risk exposure may have a strong impact on any return achieved by the fund or subfund. For further information please refer to the fund prospectus or KIID.

Liquidity risk

The fund may invest some of its assets in financial instruments that may in certain circumstances reach a relatively low level of liquidity, which can have an impact on the fund's liquidity.

Risk arising from the user of derivatives

The fund may conclude derivatives transactions. This increases opportunities, but also involves an increased risk of loss.

Currency risks

The fund may invest in assets denominated in a foreign currency. Changes in the rate of exchange may have an adverse effect on prices and incomes.

Operational risks and custody risks

The fund is subject to risks due to operational or human errors, which can arise at the investment company, the custodian bank, a custodian or other third parties.

Target market

The fund is suitable for professional investors in Austria, Germany, Luxembourg, Spain and Switzerland.

Chances

- Investments in the 40 most attractive healthcare stocks worldwide.
- Semi-active portfolio management: half-yearly company evaluation and rebalancing.
- Underweighting of pharma and US stocks against the relevant healthcare indices.
- Strong focus on quality mid caps.
- Bellevue – healthcare pioneer since 1993 and today one of the biggest independent investors in the sector in Europe.

You can find a detailed presentation of the risks faced by this fund in the "Special Investment Risks" section of the sales prospectus.

Inherent risks

- The fund invests in equities. Equities are subject to strong price fluctuations and so are also exposed to the risk of price losses.
- The fund may invest a proportion of its assets in financial instruments that might under certain circumstances have a relatively low level of liquidity, which can in turn affect the fund's liquidity.
- The fund invests in foreign currencies, which means a corresponding degree of currency risk against the reference currency.
- Investing in emerging markets entails the additional risk of political and social instability.
- The fund may engage in derivatives transactions. The increased opportunities gained come with an increased risk of losses.
